Open to emerging artists ages 18–40 who have been practicing professionally for at least one year but not more than five, and are U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Selected fellows receive studio space, housing, a $1,000 monthly stipend, and funds for supplies. The residencies run in 4-month cycles and are renewable for 3 years. At the end of the residency, fellows will exhibit their work at the Corcoran Gallery of Art.

Visual Artist Information Hotline

Telephone: 1-800-232-2789

E-mail: hotline@nyfa.org

Web site: www.nyfa.org

The hotline is available to assist artists in the U.S. and its territories. It is primarily a referral service that gives details to visual artists on a wide variety of programs and services at organizations they can apply to directly. Direct staff assistance is available 1–5 p.m. Monday through Friday (or leave voicemail at any time). Because of the large volume of calls, it is not possible to return calls; information is sent by mail the same day in response to a call.

PCEPD provides information, training, and technical assistance to increase the number of people with disabilities in the workplace. They sponsor the Job Accommodation Network referral system (see Accommodations for Work), provide free publications on disability-related employment issues, and spearhead programs such as the Business Leadership Network for employers and the Youth Leadership Forum for high school students with disabilities. In addition, PCEPD is now hosting regional job fairs several times a year. On the state and local levels, PCEPD works with the Governor's Committees and Mayor's Committees on Employment of People with Disabilities. Listing: PCEPD State Liaisons/Governor's

Appendix J

Committees on Employment of People with Disabilities.

State liaisons are often more familiar with the needs of their constituents and local employment resources for people with disabilities. These Governor's Committees are listed below; contact your state office directly for information on the resources provided in your state. Many cities also have Mayor's Committees, which act as liaisons to PCEPD. Mayor's Committees offer primarily information and referral, and they can be found in the city government listings of your local telephone directory.
